WHAT ABOUT THE POULTRY OUTLOOK FOR 1958

Most authoritative appraisals are very promising for 1958. Profits from eggs will be very good. Eggs from early hatched chicks will command a better price. Older chicks now and be prepared to sell them at a profit. We here at Sunny City Hatchery are egg producers ourselves and naturally we sell the best in egg production strains. Why not let some of our chicks for your next replacement flock? There may be a decided improvement over your present flock. We have our own breeders right here on our own farm. You may order our chicks through any of our authorized dealers in your area.

Near-Accident Mars Hillary's Airplane Trip

MCURDO SOUND, Jan. 6 (AP)—A U.S. Navy airplane bringing Brig. Gen. Mars Hillary from the South Pole to Antarctica today, after a near-accident, caused some damage to the landing gear but no casualties among the 13 persons aboard.

The twin-engine P-5V veered to the right after landing on the ice, and the right wing hit the edge of the runway, marking the limit of the runway.

A second plane, carrying newsmen and members of Hillary's party, made an emergency landing on the open ice of McMurdo Sound. Red-painted "X" marks on the runway indicated the emergency runway.

Hillary, who said he had "had enough of ice and crevasses" after his dramatic dash to the pole, flew out for a rest. He left a radio crew at the U.S. south pole base to maintain contact with the British party, headed by Vivian Fuchs, who is attempting a coast-to-coast crossing of Antarctica.

Fuchs, whose party was averaging about a mile an hour over rugged terrain, was about 330 miles from the pole. In a radio message today, he said it would take him about two weeks to reach "the bottom of the world."

Hillary will fly back to join Fuchs at the supply base he established for Fuchs between New Zealand and the pole, and will guide the British party over the last miles of its transcontinental trip.

The United States Antarctic program was the first to make a trip from the New Zealand base to the pole since 1912. Over the group were two months of travel.

It took him more than two weeks to get to the pole, and he was "tired" when he got there.

Hillary, who traveled with a considerable entourage, was "tired" when he got to the pole, and he was "tired" when he got there.

He took him just four days today to fly here from the pole.

The plane in which he traveled was piloted by U.S. Marine Maj. William A. Anson, who is a relative newcomer to the Antarctic. Col. Vernon J. Coby, who is a relative newcomer to the Antarctic, was also on the plane.

After his arrival here today, Hillary was "tired" when he got to the pole, and he was "tired" when he got there.

Police, U.S. Senator Figuring In Gypsy Rosie's Marital Woe

DETROIT, Jan. 6.—After father said he was a 14-year-old captive Gypsy bride.

But Rosie says she is a 20-year-old pregnant, happy wife who is the victim of her father's bride hand.

A storm over Rosie broke Friday when it was revealed in Washington that U.S. Sen. Charles McNichols, R-Mich., had been asked by Rosie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gypsy, to bring her back from captivity in Detroit.

The storm involved the Detroit police department, the Wayne county probate court, and two private detective agencies.

Jimmy James of a Washington private detective bureau was hired by the De Metro to bring Rosie back. Ellis Sennitt, Detroit private detective, was hired by James to help him.

But they found that Rosie had been legally married by Wayne county Probate Judge William J. Cody after telling him she was pregnant, and "had been living with" Tony (Pet) Stanley, 18, since Gypsy's wedding ceremony in Washington Oct. 6.

They also found that the Detroit police department had investigated the marriage after a complaint through Washington police by Rosie's father.

Detroit Police Lt. Jake Cook said that Rosie had ended the vagabond search for a bride by the "family of Tom (Pet) Stanley, Detroit Gypsy leader, the Stanleys, with

Sukarno Cites Unity as Tour In East Starts

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Jan. 6 (AP)—President Sukarno left today on a five-week African tour after declaring that there is "no unity" among Indonesians.

Soon after Sukarno left for Africa, the army warned that it will "take action" against any group—meaning the communists—that tries to overthrow the government during his absence.

Meanwhile, it was reported that veterans of Indonesia's postwar uprising against the Dutch are being organized into "volunteer divisions" for the liberation of West Irian (Dutch New Guinea).

The news agency PIA reported that two such divisions have been formed on Sumatra—three on Java—including one here and one in eastern Indonesia.

It was the Indonesian-Dutch dispute over New Guinea that inspired the current anti-Dutch campaign in this country.

Reports from the North Celebes—where local authorities have been denying the government for nearly a year—said the area has proclaimed itself a separate province.

Manopo's proclamation was the latest development in the surge of local revolts which have shaken the central government of authority over much of provincial Indonesia.

Sukarno was accompanied by an 11-man party including Foreign Minister Subandono, the Indian ambassador to Jakarta and various local officials.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

Books are the tools of learning. Reading them intelligently is basic to all education. Nobody argues about these facts, but too often the books that are needed are missing. They are expensive and school budgets are limited.

Thoughtful friends of the school can give the teachers and pupils a great lift by presenting them with dictionaries, encyclopedias and other good reference books. Nobody can answer all the questions children ask and not every family can afford to own the expensive children's encyclopedias. This is a matter of concern to all who care for the future of our children.

Wouldn't it be a good idea to have a dictionary and encyclopedia in the classroom? In the fourth year grades the pupils will be ready to learn how to use a dictionary on their own. This is a compliment, practiced in elementary school will give the pupils a great lift on their way to English, in history and geography and science. They will go to the encyclopedia, dictionaries and reference books as a matter of course, providing that the books are there.

Ike Secretary; Law Clash on Speed of Auto

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Mrs. Ann Whitman, personal secretary to President Eisenhower, was shot of Maryland police today while driving back to Washington from Gettysburg.

She got a stern lecture from a Montgomery County policeman about the peril of driving 50 miles an hour. But the officer let her go without giving her a ticket when she explained her mission.

Mrs. Whitman was stopped between Frederick and Rockville while attempting to catch up with the President's motorcade.

She explained to the police officer that she was trying to catch up with the presidential procession so she could arrive at the White House with the President.

This is not the first time that someone in the presidential motorcade has run afoul of Maryland police. Last spring a press car was stopped by a Montgomery County policeman when it sped through traffic lights while trying to keep up with the presidential procession.

The driver also got a lecture. And recently police pulled up alongside the motorcade and explained that there were too many cars in the procession.

Marine Denies Beating Sailor During Prayer

YOKOSUKA, Japan, Jan. 6 (AP)—A U. S. sailor charged and a marine sergeant denied today that the sailor had been beaten while praying in a U. S. Navy chapel at Sasebo, Japan.

The charges were contained in the testimony given by Navy Ensign Francis Carlos E. Vota, 18, Annapolis, Md., who was charged with the beating of a sailor during prayer.

Vota, who was in the brig for seven days following conviction for insubordination, told the court that Sergeant Barbutti "called me a religious nut" and punched him in the stomach during one of several beatings after he, Vota, started praying.

Barbutti, 25, was charged with the beating of Vota, who was in the brig for seven days following conviction for insubordination.

Barbutti also testified that Sergeant Barbutti "was always hitting me" and that the marine sergeant, on one occasion, struck him in the stomach again immediately after Vota had returned from the hospital.

Barbutti's treatment of "nuns" and "brutes" on his chest.

Barbutti also testified that Sergeant Barbutti once threatened to kill him with a shotgun.

Barbutti is one of 18 U. S. Marines charged with brutality at Sasebo.

His and another warden at the brig, Sgt. Adolph A. MacLean, 23, Philadelphia, Pa., are being tried by general court.

The 14 others have been tried by special summary courts.

After hearing testimony today, the court adjourned until tomorrow to continue the case.

Measures Slated To Block Benson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (AP)—Members of Congress from 14 states plan to introduce legislation tomorrow when Congress reconvenes to block the announced plan of Secretary of Agriculture Benson to drop dairy price supports April 1.

There is no guarantee, however, at this stage that the move will be successful. Even if Congress should pass such a bill, it would face the possibility of a veto by President Eisenhower.

Benson announced Dec. 16 that he will cut the supports when the new dairy season opens April 1 to the minimum allowable of 75 per cent of parity. Dairy price supports now range up to 85 per cent.

He also took off in a Soviet TU-104 jet airliner for the seven-hour flight to Moscow.

Last night he got a last-minute briefing on his mission from President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

He is being accompanied by a dozen financial and trade experts in the talks which are expected to open at the Kremlin tomorrow and to last for three or four weeks.

Wool Group Meets

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 6 (AP)—The Utah Wool Growers association opens its 31st annual convention tomorrow when some 150 members are expected to turn out for the opening session.

Recent grazing reductions on federal land operated by the bureau of land management and the forestry service are expected to come under heavy fire during the three-day gathering.

Soviets Hope to Conquer Jinx In Ascent to Fabled Treasure

NEW YORK, Jan. 6 (AP)—Soviet mountain climbers vow to conquer in 1958 the jinx-associated cave which supposedly laden with Chinese treasure. It is high on a mountain side in central Asia.

Russian readers follow with intense interest reports in the magazine Gonyok and other Soviet press organs of an expedition sent in 1937 to reach this legendary cavern. They have been writing to editors asking why the expedition failed, like many previous attempts.

Alphabetical Polyakov in a long article in the Literary Gazette attempted to "answer" these queries with a detailed explanation for the failure of 1937 and a promise for the coming year.

He declared: "The secret of the Maita-tash cave will cease to exist in 1938."

Polyakov reported a summer expedition is training for a summer assault.

Maita-tash cave is about 200 yards above the floor of the Hangkai valley in the Pamir mountains at the southern corner of Soviet Central Asia, in the Tadzhik republic. It has long been a source of legend among the natives.

The cliff on which it is located is about 400 yards high, rising straight up from a valley floor 12,000 feet above sea level. The mouth of the cave can easily be seen from below.

This story of the Chinese treasure has been handed down for generations.

Two or three centuries ago a large Chinese army attempted to winter in the Hangkai valley, only a short distance from the present Soviet-Chinese border. They suffered disaster. Tribes allied to them took all the good horses and fled. The Chinese army died of starvation and one group was attacked by a flock of the large birds inhabiting the area. Then it got its ropes tangled in its attempt to drop a man down from the top of the cliff. It went home empty-handed. Another group climbed to within 75 feet of the cave mouth only to find the cliff face was as hard and solid that no holds could be found.

In 1947 the expedition saw two of its members put out of commission by a fall, the other by illness. Then finally when it succeeded in lowering a climber to the cave mouth from above on a cable, he found he could get no grip in the recessed opening into the cave and had to be pulled back.
